ADHD is often misunderstood and is easy to overlook. Many educators would be quick to label these children as disobedient, lazy, or airheaded. I come from a family of ADHD and we are none of these things. We are doctors, business owners, and programmers. Through a support system that helped mold us we were able to perform above and beyond. Unfortunately, many children do not have this support system and fall into a self-fulfilling prophecy that they will never amount to anything. Educate the educators and guide our students. Please.
